Who has access to my BRE data?

January 26, 2022

1. DED Privacy Policy

All data entered into DED's Survey Monkey's Business Retention and Expansion (BRE) Survey is viewable by your organization and the Nebraska Dept. of Economic Development (DED). Upon requesting access to DED's BRE Report, your data will be available to you.

If a survey has been entered under the incorrect organization and needs to be fixed, email Emily.hasenauer@nebraska.gov. Please provide the business interviewed, the date, and the names of the interviewers in your email. DED will then correct to the appropriate organization.

2. How do I share my data with multiple partners?

NOTE: Request access to DED's BRE Access Request prior to entering in shared Surveys.

If you have an Economic Development Partner with whom you wish you to share your data, update your BRE Access Request. (<https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/BREaccessrequest>) Provide your information and if you choose to share with an external partner, DED will create an option for you to select whether the individual BRE survey will be shared with just your organization or with you and your partner.

For example: Suppose that you work for the City of Anytown. You conduct BRE surveys for your city. You also occasionally conduct joint surveys with the local economic development corporation (Anytown Economic Development Corp.) and the local utility company (Acme Utility Co.). If you would like to share some data with either of these organizations, you will indicate that in DED's BRE Access Request.

After DED has approved your access request, you are able to start sharing data with your partners. When you complete the BRE survey that needs to be shared, you or your partner will select the appropriate Economic Development Partner Organization. The City of Anytown will have access to the following data in their report:

- Anytown
- Anytown - Anytown Economic Development Corp
- Anytown - Acme Corp. Utilities

See the chart below for the access that each partner organization will have.
